

BASSAMFELLOWS INTRODUCES RAMUS

A New Standard
in Executive Comfort

A Task Chair Unlike Any Other— Where Luxury Lounge Meets Performance

BassamFellows is proud to unveil Ramus, a new executive comfort task chair designed to seamlessly integrate into both home and work environments. Unlike traditional task chairs—designed for pure function and often cold, mechanical aesthetics—Ramus is a true departure from convention, bringing the warmth, materiality, and indulgent comfort of a luxury lounge chair to the modern workspace.

Where Work and Life Intertwine

Inspired by the philosophy captured in James Michener's famous words—"The master in the art of living makes little distinction between his work and his play..."—Ramus is designed for those who refuse to compromise on beauty, comfort, or craftsmanship, no matter the setting. Whether placed in a refined home office, a design-forward workspace, or a thoughtfully curated boardroom, Ramus redefines what a task chair can be.

A Fusion of Craftsmanship and Comfort

At the heart of Ramus is a stunning architectural structure. The chair's carved solid-wood ribs extend from a sculptural spine, creating a frame that is as visually striking as it is supportive. This minimal yet strong framework serves as the foundation for sumptuous, feather-and-down-filled cushions, which appear to float effortlessly within the wooden form. The result is a chair that embraces the user in unparalleled softness while maintaining a sculptural, refined presence.

Even the chair's five-star base, typically an afterthought in task chair design, is crafted from solid carved wood—a bold yet seamless integration of organic materiality and functional movement. With this innovation, Ramus exudes a warmth and sophistication rarely seen in ergonomic seating.

Why Ramus? A Name Rooted in Strength and Grace

The name Ramus, derived from the Latin word for "branch," is a direct reflection of the chair's organic yet structured design. Just as a branch extends with both strength and elegance, Ramus supports and cradles with a natural ease—bridging the gap between form and function, work and leisure.

A Chair That Belongs Everywhere

Most task chairs are made to be hidden when not in use. Ramus is designed to be seen. In a home setting, it looks and feels more like a lounge chair than a piece of office equipment. In the workplace, it brings an element of residential luxury that makes an office feel warm, inviting, and effortlessly stylish. This duality—of purpose, setting, and experience—is what sets Ramus apart.

With Ramus, BassamFellows has once again redefined expectations, proving that a task chair can be both exquisitely beautiful and profoundly comfortable. It is not just a place to sit—it is an invitation to live and work with effortless sophistication.
