Gion Lantern

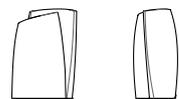

FG008430

The ancient entertainment district of Kyoto gives this lantern its name. Alluring forms cup and slide enigmatically between each other to cover the golden inner light source. Wrapped in richly grained ivory parchment on the exterior, the inside is a polished, soft gold that emits light and also holds it as though there is a hidden treasure within its delicate centre. This lantern continues Alexander Lamont's work with lighting that is unexpected and gorgeous, bringing warm light to any room.
